Power Climber Receives Top Scaffold & Access Industry Association Award

SEATTLE – Power Climber, a division of SafeWorks, LLC, recently received the 2013 Outstanding Company Contribution Award by the Scaffold & Access Industry Association (SAIA).

This top industry honor is awarded to the SAIA member firm who has distinguished itself through teamwork, monetary contributions, volunteer time, and effort in participation of association activities.

In addition, Power Climber's National Sales Director and SAIA President-Elect Mike Russell was selected as the recipient of the 2013 Coupling Pin Award, presented to the SAIA member who has performed exemplary service and shown exceptional dedication to the Association.

“It is truly an honor to be recognized by the scaffold industry's leading governing association with their highest awards,” commented Scott Farrell, CEO of SafeWorks, the parent company of Power Climber. “Involvement in respected associations like the SAIA demonstrates our ongoing commitment to excellence as a company. And we are especially proud of the recognition Mike Russell has received as a result of his faithful service to our industry. Having dedicated team members like Mike on board is one of our keys to decades of market leadership.”
